Investors should stay away from penny stocks as wealth is created by investing in high-quality stocks and remaining invested for long term," said Vijaykumar of Geojit advised.New Delhi: Even as the benchmark indices faced intense selling pressure in the second half of January, as many as 25 penny stocks have been able to tide through these turbulent times and doubled investors' wealth. These 25 stocks have rallied between 100-160 per cent since January 1, 2022, suggests data available with ACE Equity. Ten other names have rallied more than 90 per cent during the period under review. This is at a time when the recent selloff has shaved off gains for BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty, with both turning flat on a year-to-date (YTD) basis. The correction, triggered by a fall in global equities, inflation worries, third wave of the pandemic, tightening of monetary policy by central banks, has had little impact on these names. Real estate counter RTCL topped the list, with a 157 per cent return during the period under review. The scrip rallied to Rs 26.95 on Friday, January 21 from its closing price of Rs 10.48 on December 31 last year. It is followed by Tranway Technologies, an IT consulting microcap, that has risen 145 per cent to Rs 16.26 from Rs 6.65 between January 1-21 period. The flat glass manufacturing company, Triveni Glass, and jewellery maker Orosil Smiths India, formerly known as Silver Smith India, have surged 131 per cent and 125 per cent, respectively. Other names -- Citizen Infoline, Swiss Military Consumer Goods, IL&FS Engineering and Construction, Tine Agro, Visagar Financial Services, Kinetic Truff, Senthil Infotek and Terrascope Ventures -- have surged between 105-110 per cent. Penny stocks, popular among retail investors, are risky because market rumours are the primary source of price action in these stocks, said Likhita Chepa, Senior Research Analyst, CapitalVia Global Research. "Spotting the right opportunity in these stocks is difficult and they can also become extremely volatile during the corrective phase," she added. There is no theoretical definition for penny stocks. However, stocks with single-digit prices or below Rs 10 are bracketed in this club. ETmarkets.com has considered companies that had a market capitalisation of less than Rs 1,000 crore at the end of 2021 for the purpose of this study. Some typical characteristics of these stocks tend to be low promoter holding, huge debt, accumulated losses and poor dividend track record. "Manipulation by operators plays an important role in such stocks. Investors should stay away from penny stocks as wealth is created by investing in high-quality stocks and remaining invested for long term," said Vijaykumar of Geojit advised. Shares of FGP, ARC Finance, Thirai Projects, Kaiser Corp, Goenka Diamond and Jewels, Beeyu Overseas, Madhusudan Securities, Omansh Enterprises, Consolidated Construction, Luharuka Media & Infra, MFL India and Maharashtra Corp have also doubled investors wealth during the given period. Other stocks like GV Films, Sun Retail, Neelkanth Rockminerals, Johnson Pharmcare, BLS infotech, Chambal Breweries, Biogen Pharmachem, Beryl Securities, Organic Coatings, Vikas EcoTech and Vikas Lifecare have delivered 90-100 per cent return to the investors. Investing in micro or smallcap funds rather than direct equities is a better option, Chepa said, adding that these can be beneficial to investors that follow a buy-sell-and-forget strategy However, not all penny stocks have awarded investors. As many as nine stocks have tanked between 30-50 per cent during 2022 so far, with three of them - Samtex Fashions, Viji Finance and Cranes Software - down over 40 per cent. Other names include CLC Industries (39 per cent down), Abhinav Leasing & Finance(34 per cent down), HB Leasing (34 per cent down), CNI Research (34 per cent down), Tirupati Tyres (39 per cent down) and Brjilaxmi Leasing (30 per cent down). Results per page Last Updated - March 2022 In this article, we will cover What are penny stocks? Penny stocks are stocks that trade at very low prices normally below 50 rupees. They have low market capitalization and mostly are illiquid. Penny stocks are lesser-known to the larger investing public. Investors remain away from them because the information regarding their fundamentals and businesses is either not reliable or not available. However, penny stocks are known for generating multi-bagger returns within a few trading sessions. Since penny stocks are illiquid, sometimes only a few orders can lead to hitting circuit limit on the exchange. These stocks mostly give higher returns when they are hitting upper circuits for a number of days. Generally, this period of hitting circuits is not accompanied with trading volumes. Sometimes there is a strong fundamental story that moves the stock up. Other times it might just be a case of manipulation by stock operators. They artificially inflate the price and volumes to attract innocent retail investors. Once they have enough traders participating in the stocks they would offload their own holdings. Now that we have understood the modus operandi of penny stocks. lets see why are penny stocks called "Penny" Stocks Penny Stocks are Called Penny Stocks for a Reason! Penny stocks trade at such low rates for a reason because most of the traders buying penny stocks don't even care about them and look to exit sooner or later once they have given decent returns. Penny stocks in India often don't comply with exchange regulations. They are not even transparent in their reporting. It is only when there is some news or some turnaround stories on penny stocks, that they move. The speculation leads to an increase in trading volumes and prices soar. But very few of them turn out to be true or genuinely strong on a fundamental basis. Any negative news causes the price to turn south. List of Best Penny Stocks to Buy now in India People who generally trade or invest in penny stocks are generally the lower class of retail investors who do not keep a portfolio approach and invest in them based on news or tip from some random sources. They think the price is so low that they will not lose much but if the stock turns out to be good then it could double or triple their investment. However, investors should always keep in mind that they might be investing in small amounts but still, they can lose 100 percent of their capital. You can learn how to invest in penny stocks from this episode of our show The Right Choices with Oracles of Dalal Street. Things to keep in mind while buying penny stocks The risk that a penny stock will go bust is equally high. The company can suddenly shut down or there can be very little probability of giving multi-bagger returns. The total capital that deserves to be invested in penny stocks should not be more than 2 to 3 percent of a person's portfolio value. Investing in penny stocks is mostly speculative. First of all, investors should avoid investing in them and if they buy any it should be treated as buying a lottery. You should never become emotionally attached to them in the hope of some good news. Investors should also never follow a buy and hold approach even if they have got good returns recently. Because over a period of time neither they are able to generate value for shareholders nor they follow a transparent reporting system. Investors should also research extensively about the stock and the news going on in the public domain and not become the victim of operators' conspiracy, who later offload their holdings after manipulating the price. The transaction cost for some penny stocks is also higher and on some the brokerage is charged on a per-share basis. Similarly when stocks trade at a very low price, the spread between the bid and ask price also turn out to be significant in terms of percentage. The stocks mentioned in the watchlist have been determined after keeping in mind news, speculation, trend in their price chart, and a few fundamental factors such as debt to equity ratio and cashflows. But this information will vary on a day to day basis depending on the newsflow and an investor should make some relevant background checks in his capacity before investing in these stocks.
